

About

Cardno is a professional infrastructure and environmental services company, with expertise in the development and improvement of the physical and social environment. Cardno partners with its clients to deliver projects that make a positive difference throughout the world. These range from restoration efforts in the Gulf of Mexico, oversight of elections in PNG, business skills programs for women in Zambia or hydro-electric power in Ecuador.

"The Cardno advantage is the integrated use of engineering, environmental, social and economic services to develop solutions for complex infrastructure problems."

International success has been achieved by following a dedicated strategy, engagement of employees, innovative approaches to marketing and market entry, application of technology as a differentiator and careful attention to execution risks.

Originating from Brisbane, Australia, Cardno has evolved to become a significant global business. We are well on our way to achieve our strategic goal of 75% of revenue from international activity by 2015. Today, we employ 8,000 staff, with almost 6,000 dedicated to international business development and project delivery across 85 countries.

"Over the past 3 years international revenue has increased more than three-fold to over $550m. 2012/13 will be another record in international sales for Cardno."

Michael Renshaw
Chief Executive Officer

Q. What does winning an export award mean for your staff and for the company?

A. Cardno is a services company, our product relates back to the skills and expertise of our people. Winning this award is a tangible recognition and acknowledgment of the 8,000 staff that made this happen for Cardno.

